The young man, who with his parents had for some time spent the summers at Congress Hall at the Springs, was sent there by his mother to spend Springs, was sent there by his mother to spend the winter with Mr. McLane, manager of the hotel, with the hope that he might acquire more temperate habits. He had frequently been to St. Albans and in other ways obtained liquor. Wednesday last in a ht of intoxication he fired pistols about the house driving the housekeeper, Mrs. Barber, into her room. Having and swearing he was so uncontrollable that help was sent for and with difficulty the young baccanal was overpowered, and Thursday morning he was put under arrest.

Those who attended the performances of the Mascot and the Magie Slipper by the Corinne Merrie-Makers in this village a few weeks ago have not forgotten little Corinne, the wonderful child actress. Last week this little girl was pres-ent, in supreme court chambers, in the city o New York, in obedience to a writ of hubeus corpus issued by Judge Donahue. The writ was sued out by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. The child had been advertised to ap-pear in a place of amusement in that city. The writ was issued against the present custodian of the child, Mrs. Jennie Flahetty, her adopted mother, to compel Corinne's production in court, the society claiming that a child of such tender Full repairs have been made upon the meet- years was acting on the public stage in violation of law. The child detailed with much precision and self-confidence the pieces and places in which she had played since she began as Little Buttercup in Boston when only five years old. She said playing did not weary her even when she played twice in one day; she liked to be encored and on one occasion in Pinafore a gentleman gave her one occasion in Pinafore a gentleman gave her a ship with $1,500 as cargo. She said she had a maid, a dressmaker, a coach and another attend-ant named Fritz,—a little watch-dog, a Scotch terrier. She burst into tears when told she must go with the agent of the society till further inves-tigation could be had. When momentarily out of the custody of the officer, making her prepara-tions to accompany him, Corinne was abducted at the instigation of her adopted mother. Rev. A. P. Mason, D. D., of Roston, Massachus, setts, delivered two very interesting sermons upon "Home Missions," in the Baptist church, Sonday, December 4th. Dr. Mason's settles and the extensive knowledge of this branch of Christian work, being serestory for New England of the American Baptist Home Missionary Society, makes him an interesting as well as a very instructive speaker on this subject. He made mention of the great work accomplished through this society during the fifty years of its existence, of the broad field mov opened, and of what is to be done in the future to obtain the desired end.

The remaining wardens, i. Bart Cross, George A. Peck, C. A. Reed and Joel Foster, Jr., were unanimously re-elected. A motion to rake a committee of one from each ward to nominate a board of balliffs was withdrawn, and the more democratic method of nomination in open meeting adopted. A. C. Dewey and J. B. Canor.—Brief mention was made in the WATCHMAN of November 23d, of diphtheria in the family of Mr. James Marsh. Since that date the record of the family has been very sad. Mr. Isaac A. Hills, his wife, a daughter of Mr. Marsh, and two children lived in the same family. On Tuesday, the 22d cit, Mary, aged four years, died. The following Thursday morning, Clara, aged six years and ten months, died. Mary was buried Thursday morning. The mother, who had borne the death of her two children within fortyeight hours of each other with fortitude, on seeing the body of little Clara brought out of the house lingered in an unconscious state, apparently sof-fering in her head until the following Wednesday, the 30th, when death released her from her suffer-ings and she was borne by the noiseless beatman over the river to embrace again those dear children whose death had caused her life. In this sad event a husband and father has been been children, have forevever lost her upon whom they had hoped to lean in their declining years, and her children that should cheer them as they passed down the declivity of life.
